

step

in chromatography

The portion of an integral chromatogram recording the amount of a component, or the corresponding change in the signal from the detector as the component emerges from the column.

Source:

Orange Book, p. 96